PERISHER VALLEY MELTS WITH THE SEDUCTIVE SOUNDS OF TEX PERKINS AND THE AUDREYS

The Perisher Valley is set to swoon when the legendary award-winning Tex Perkins and The Audreys take to the stage of the inaugural Snowy Mountains of Music festival on the June long weekend.

From grungy pub rock to evocative soundscapes and world-weary dark country, Tex Perkins has loomed large over the years as one of Australia's biggest rock stars with a quintessentially Australian sound. For the festival the very smooth Tex Perkins will be teaming up with Charlie Owen and James Cruikshank. This classic trio has played with some of Australia's favourite rock bands - The Cruel Sea, The Beasts of Bourbon, Catfish and the Dark Horses. Don't miss out on catching Tex, Charlie and James for some potent country blues in a very intimate setting.

Fresh from taking home their second Aria Award, The Audreys will be wowing the crowds at Perisher with two shows at the festival. With their distinct style of alt country mixed with a little blues and roots, their latest award-winning album When The Flood Comes has been described as 'stunningly original', 'incredibly beautiful' and 'absolutely brilliant'. For festival goers it's an opportunity to curl up in an armchair by the fire and be taken on a very unique journey with one of Australia's finest acts.

From Friday 5 June to Monday 8 June, the Snowy Mountains of Music is a chance to experience the wonder of the high country in Winter whilst listening to some great new sounds of world, folk, roots, celtic, acoustic, song, dance, poetry and yarn-spinning.
